Economically Active Population Survey (EAPS)
Annual average for 2012

Today, the INE is publishing the results of the annual averages of the Economically Active Population Survey corresponding to the year 2012, in INEbase, thus making them available to users. These results are calculated as the arithmetic mean of the four quarters previously published for the financial year.

The practice of the detailed dissemination of the annual averages in their current format began in 2001, and all of the series are available in INEbase, at the following link:
